The Chinese University of Hong Kong - Department of Philosophy

PHIL1110 Introduction to Philosophy 哲學概論

Time: M 10:30am-12:15pm Location: ELB LT2

Tutorial Time to be arranged

What is this course about?

This course is a general introduction to philosophical methods and problems. Its goal is to:

- Introduce you to the pleasures and importance of philosophical reflection on things that matter in life, such as knowledge, rationality, god, and values.
- Help you gain a basic familiarity with a wide range of topics in the subject.
- Help you acquire the skills of philosophical enquiry, specifically the ability to interpret, analyze, and formulate philosophical arguments.
- Demonstrate how philosophical thinking can make a distinctive contribution to your understanding of yourself, others, and the world.

What may you expect to achieve?

If you put reasonable efforts into this course, by the end of it you will be able to:

- ♦ Formulate and describe the nature and characteristics of philosophical thinking and philosophical problems.
- Identify and formulate basic issues in the main areas of philosophy, including metaphysics, theory of knowledge, and ethics.
- Critically discuss and further explore these issues.
- Demonstrate reasonable facility in reading, analyzing, and interpreting philosophical texts.
- Demonstrate reasonable facility in philosophical writing and discussion, and to strengthen these skills through self-learning.

Topics

I. Introduction

1. What is philosophy? Why study it?

II. Metaphysics

- 2. God and Reason: Can you prove that God exists?
- 3. Mind and Matter: Can there be zombies?
- 4. Self, Person, and Identity: Who am I?

III. Knowledge, Truth and Rationality

- 5. Dream and Skepticism: Does the external world really exist?
- 6. Conceptual Analysis: What is knowledge?
- 7. Prisoner's Dilemma and Origin of Virtues: When is it rational to cooperate?

IV. Values, Morality, and Meaning of Life

- 8. Morality and Values: Are there objective values?
- 9. Acting Morally and Utilitarianism: Is what is moral that has the best consequences?
- 10. Inequality: Is economic equality a moral ideal?

Learning activities

In this course, you are expected to: (1) read and make a reasonable effort think about the assigned readings; (2) develop the skills of philosophical enquiry through philosophical discussion and writing; (3) attend all lectures/tutorials and to participate in discussion and presentation.

In-class activities and workload:

- 1. Lecture: 2 3 hours each week (see course schedule below for details).
- 2. Tutorial:
  - a. Small group teach; size of each group: ~10 students.
  - b. One 2-hour session every two weeks (time and venue to be arranged).
  - c. Tutorials are discussion-intensive. Attendance is mandatory.
  - d. Guidelines on requirements and assessment method of tutorials will be provided in the tutorial-briefing session.
  - e. The signing-up of tutorial is done through teacher-student arrangement during lecture sessions in the first two weeks. If you fail to attend class during this period, you may not be able to sign up for tutorials, which is mandatory.

Out-of-class:

- 1. Reading: to understand better issues discussed in lectures and to prepare for tutorials.
- 2. Essay preparation and writing: an average of 2 hours each week on preparing and writing essay assignments throughout the term. You should try to design a schedule that allows you to apportion more time on writing and discussing your essay with your tutor/teacher two to three weeks before each essay is due.

Assessment scheme

Task	Description	Weight
Tutorial	Discussion, presentation, reading notes	~30%
Short Essay 1 (~1,000 words)	See "Guidelines on Short Essay 1" (separate document)	~35%
Short Essay 2 (~1,200 words)	See "Guidelines on Short Essay 2" (separate document)
Take-home examination	Essay type questions. Coverage: lectures and readings. Questions and instructions will be uploaded to Blackboard shortly after the last lecture.	~35%

Contact details for teacher and tutors

Wong Kai Yee: FKH 428, wongky@cuhk.edu.hk, Tel: 39437145

Reading list

Only basic/mandatory readings are listed. For details on other required readings, suggested further readings for each topic, please see lecture notes and separate lists of reading. Reading assignments for tutorial will be detailed in the Briefing Session for tutorials (third week)

Plagiarisms and Academic Honesty!!

Attention is drawn to University policy and regulations on honesty in academic work, and to the disciplinary guidelines and procedures applicable to breaches of such policy and regulations. I shall assume that before submitting your paper you will make yourself fully aware of such policy, regulations, guidelines, and procedures, as stated in the following official CUHK website on academy honesty:

http://www.cuhk.edu.hk/policy/academichonesty/

Bibliography (See Separate File)

Feedback for evaluation

- 1. Students are strongly encouraged to provide feedback on the course via email or meetings with professor or tutors.
- 2. Midway through the term, students will also be asked to provide feedback via a brief questionnaire on the course.
- 3. As with all courses in Philosophy Department, students evaluate the course through a survey and written comments at the end of the term as well as via regular feedback between teacher, tutors, and students. This information is highly valued and is used to revise teaching methods, tasks, and content.